

Fall Planting of Vines and Fruit Trees.

Now is the time to attend to the important matter of planting vines and fruit trees. A correspondent of the Rural World says:

"The foliage vines are now nearly dead; on apples it may be removed with safety, and planting can be undertaken with advantage. Some think that if the plant is put in the ground in the fall, it will be better; but to this we take exception; the full benefit of fall planting is only to be expected by being done in October or November. While the arguments that arise from the question of the condition of the soil, the condition of the plants—are all in favor of fall planting—still, much care and judgment are necessary in regard to soil and other circumstances. Attention must be given to the making of the holes. We must see that deep holes are not dug, so as to hold water and have the roots standing in miniature ponds all winter. In planting, cut the broken off clean with a sharp knife. Trim the soil to the stem of the tree, so as to steady it against the wind; the soil to be removed in spring. With vines we operate in a similar manner, cutting the cane when cut off to the covering height, with three or four inches of earth. If instead of making holes for either trees or vines, a plow and subsoiler can be run in furrows, back and forth, to a depth of first one foot, then two feet, and so on, until the soil is broken up to the depth of three feet, and the vines are planted in the furrows, the result will be better than in the holes."

In many cases avoid the danger of water setting around the roots, as well as more expeditiously performed. All our plants suffer much by being planted too late in spring; the summer drought operating before the tree has formed its root-system."

The Horticulturist says that in planting this fall, all should remember that it is requisite to set the tree just so deep as to enable it to stand; for we can place earth around it so as to protect it from heaving off the winter's frost, and as soon as spring opens and the ground is leveled down, the roots will start and seek their appropriate depth. If we dig a deep hole, especially in hard clay soil, and fill it with good loam, and set our tree therein, we first invite the water there as into a cistern—and second, we cause a vigorous growth of roots until they reach the undisturbed clay, when a check is at once perceptible; and often an orchard stands from five to seven years without apparently making any progress. Remember, then, and plant your trees just so deep as to cover their roots, but no more; then earth up for a winter protection against frost for the first year, and dress down again to a level in the spring.

Potato Culture—How to Grow Early Potatoes.

The Memphis Southern Farmer gives some directions for growing early potatoes, which are at least worth a trial. The plan is to prepare a set of shallow boxes, two and a half to three inches deep; select for seed all that have good strong eyes at the blossoms or seed end, and cut off each eye with a bit of the potato attached. The blossom eyes are No. 1, the middle eyes No. 2, the base eyes No. 3, which are to be kept separate. No. 1 will start and ripen first. Cover the bottom of the box with compost or sand, set the eyes so that they will touch each other, then fill with sand or compost. If common soil is used, the sets will be apt to stick together and make a hard mass, while with sand they will easily separate. Keep in a warm place, and wet with warm water. From two to three weeks will bring them into a condition for planting, which in this vicinity should be about the first of April. A few days before planting water should be withheld, for the purpose of easily separating the roots. Careful and repeated shaking is required to separate them. If any are too forward at planting, and there is danger of frost, they may be laid down and covered with earth. A correspondent at Burnsville, Ind., gives the following as his plan for raising potatoes:

"Plow your ground deeply, harrow down smooth, mark out three feet apart, drill or plant in hills as you like, cover shallow with dirt, on top of which place straw (if partly rotted is the better) ten or twelve inches thick. You now have nothing to do in the potato patch until digging time, when you raise the straw and take out the potatoes, which will be found in large yield, and nice and clean."

MULCHING PEACH TREES.—A correspondent of the Prairie Farmer, writing from Willsville, says that last year a friend of his threshed his oats in an orchard and then placed his chaff under a peach tree to the depth of twelve or fourteen inches. The result was that the same variety on other trees. He wishes to know if it would be injurious to young trees to protect them in that manner from severe frosts through winter. Mulching under most conditions is valuable, and to a small extent practicable, but our large peach orchards must depend mainly on clean, thorough culture for their fine crops. Through culture we have presented the same results as did the oat chaff.

THE NAME IOWA.—It is said that the Indians who made the word and alone knew its definition, pronounced Iowa as if spelled E-O-Wah—putting heavy stress on the ending syllable; and they say it does not mean "beautiful land," as has been generally and poetically imagined, but has a meaning equally as potent and far more substantial: "An Allergic Home." That is, a home pretty much forever, or as long as you desire it. We accept the amendment, and pass it over to the public for a third reading.—Des Moines Register.

NEVER enter a sick room in a state of perspiration as the moment you become cool your pores absorb. Do not approach contagious diseases with an empty stomach, nor sit between the sick and the well, because the heat attracts the vapor. Preventives are preferable to pills or powders.

WOMAN—FEMALE.

Special and in which they perform a subject to many sufferings. Freedom of the female sex, for none of the various ailments, long suffered to run on without involving the general health of the individual, and producing permanent sickness and premature death. Nor is it pleasant to consult a physician for the relief of these various delicate affections, and only upon the most urgent occasions, long be made to suffer. The sex will then thank us for placing in their hands a simple remedy which will be found efficacious in relieving and curing almost every one of these troubles.

Hickman's Extract of Broom—Hundreds suffer in silence, and hundreds of others are kept in a state of nervousness, who either merely tolerate them with the hope of a cure or apply remedies which make them worse. I would not wish to assert anything that would do injury to the afflicted, but I am obliged to say that although it may be produced from excessive exhaustion of life, by loss of sleep, by over employment, unwholesome air and food, profuse menstruation, the use of tea and coffee, a frequent change of residence, and other causes, it is directly caused by the mucus membrane of the vagina itself.

When reviewing the causes of these distressing complaints, it is most painful to contemplate the attendant evils consequent upon them. It is but simple justice to the sex to enumerate a few of the manifold afflictions which so largely affect the life, health, and happiness of woman in all classes of society, and which consequently affect more or less directly, the welfare of the entire human family. The mucus membrane of the vagina, which exists for the purpose of guarding the female system, and which is the source of all the troubles which attend the female system, is in a state of chronic inflammation, and the result is a constant flow of mucus, which is the cause of all the troubles which attend the female system.

Also, Boot and Shoe next door to the saloon, where a few of the mucus membrane of the vagina, which exists for the purpose of guarding the female system, and which is the source of all the troubles which attend the female system, is in a state of chronic inflammation, and the result is a constant flow of mucus, which is the cause of all the troubles which attend the female system.

Recommendations.

The following are a few selected from the multitude of recommendations in our possession, and which have been published in the following papers:

[From W. P. Heald, Esq., Bangor, Me.]

BANGOR, ME., April 24, 1868.

I hereby certify that I have used tobacco for many years, and have been unable to leave of it at different times—I have left it off one year at a time, but always coming back, and finding it impossible to resist the temptation, until I began to use Orton's Preparation, which has completely cured me of the appetite for tobacco.

I would recommend all who are afflicted with this terrible habit to try the Preparation, which will certainly cure if the directions are followed.

[From W. Adams, Knoxville, Tenn.]

KNOXVILLE, TENN., Aug. 5, 1867.

This is to certify that I had used tobacco for many years, and was completely cured by the use of Orton's Preparation, and that this is the only reliable remedy now presented to the afflicted; that it not only promptly cures Coughs, Colds, and all diseases of the Throat, Breast, Lungs, but will in its earlier stages, most positively cure Consumption, if this remedy is resorted to in time, and the directions which are ample, are faithfully followed.

DR. LAWRENCE'S

"ROSADALIS,"

Recommended by the Best Physicians, and the leading men and newspapers throughout the country.

Read the following from "Brick Pomeroy's" paper, the La Crosse Democrat, in its issue of May 12th, 1868:

"We never commend a medicine to the public until we know just what it is, and that is why, having the greatest confidence in the preparation, we can earnestly recommend it to a suffering public. Dr. Lawrence's compound extract of Rosadalis."

"It is unrivaled as a blood purifier, and is a certain cure for Scrofula in all its various forms, Chronic Rheumatism, Sore Eyes, Eruptions of the Skin, and all diseases of the blood, liver, kidneys and bladder. After eradicating every species of humor and had taken it restores the system to a healthy and vigorous condition, and never produces the slightest injury in any shape."

"Unlike patent quack medicines, the Rosadalis is not composed of dangerous ingredients, but the list of articles from which it is compounded is published and wrapped about each bottle, and wherever it has been introduced the Medical Faculty have most highly recommended it."

"Dr. Lawrence has thousands of the best kind of testimonials from the public, and it has, by its intrinsic virtues as a remedial agent, secured a remarkable and enduring reputation. Persons who have tried it tender their unqualified testimony in its praise; and it is our candid opinion, based upon observation, that it has already saved hundreds of persons from a premature grave.
